Astronauts receive red carpet treatment

By HENRY CANTIN

Huron Township opened its arms and hearts wide this weekend in its reception for Apollo 15 astronauts.

More than 10,000 adults and children, some in the arms of their parents, turned out to meet and greet Astronauts Col. David R. Scott, Lt. Col. James B. Irwin and Mag. Alfred W. Worden when they arrived in New Boston Saturday to participate in Huron Township's first police and firemen's field day festivities and parade.

They arrived in police-escorted cars around 11:15 a.m. The community, bedecked in banners of welcome, flags of all sizes and crowds that began to gather before 8 a.m. greeted the astronauts.

Also waiting to welcome the trio were government officials, business and professional leaders and school administrators from not only Huron Township but from nearly all western Wayne County communities.

The township's first police and firemen's field day parade, reported to be the second best in Huron Township's history was held prior to the astronauts' arrival. It took more than an hour to pass the reviewing stand erected on Huron River Drive near St. Stephen's Church.

The astronauts, who manned the fourth successful trip to the moon, made brief addresses to area youth and were honored guests at an elaborate luncheon in St. Stephen's Catholic Church Hall.

They departed for the National Aviation and Space Exposition at Willow Run Airport, Ypsilanti after their New Boston appearance.

The appearance of the astronauts in New Boston was due to the untiring efforts of Police Chief Christopher Maciolek and Mrs. Mary Lou Carey, township clerk.

The field day was initiated by Chief Maciolek with an aim to bring about better and closer relations and communications with township youth. They made plans to get the astronauts to attend and were successful.

The planned field day mushroomed into an event beyond the expectations of township officials.

Chief Maciolek told the crowds jamming the area around the speakers' stand that they were there for two great occasions to honor the astronauts and to participate in the township's first police and firemen's field day.

Congressman William D. Ford, (d) 15th District, who flew in from Washington, was introduced by George W. Moore, township supervisor.

Ford commended the astronauts on their space achievements and said they demonstrated the true American spirit at a time when "we need it very badly."

Astronaut Scott said, "New Boston may be one of the smallest in population, but it is certainly the largest in terms of enthusiasm."

"I had to rely on many people to accomplish what we did. Teamwork is essential in every walk of life. As you grow older you will realize that you rely on many people," Scott said. "We had to rely on thousands of people to make Apollo 15 a success. You want to have your police and firemen take care of you when you need them, but you should take care of them."

Approximately 5,000 persons, many youngsters, crowded around the speakers' stand to hear.

Three resign from PCHA administration

By JOE CHAREST
Daily Eagle Staff Writer

Elmer J. Mathia, controller for the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) for the past 13½ years, has submitted his resignation, a move which may throw the Authority into deeper controversy concerning its financial affairs.

In addition to Mathia, the office managers of two of the PCHA's four hospitals are stepping down, both citing personal reasons.

William Shiles, office manager at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti, has resigned after three years on the job, and Arthur Allen, office manager at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne for eight years, has quit.

Allen, owner of the Lee Adams Men's Store, 34902 Michigan Ave. in Wayne, said his resignation was caused by a desire to promote his business on a full-time basis.

During Mathia's tenure as controller, the PCHA has suffered through several intense controversies over money matters, including a scandal which resulted in the ouster of Executive Director Kenneth W. Gremore in 1966.

Since Gremore's ouster, the State Attorney General's office has had an ongoing investigation into PCHA affairs, including scrutiny over annual audits and the power to delve deeper into any aspect of Authority financing, as deemed necessary by that office.

Mrs. Maxine Virtue, assistant Attorney General, told the press last week that the investigation has been intensified and that the PCHA is in "trouble brewing."

Gremore is now more active than ever in his efforts to topple the present power structure. Mathia's resignation can be considered a victory of sorts for Gremore, who insists that the procedures he was criticized and lost his job for are still carried through under the present administration.

Among the most damaging disclosures against Gremore at that time were his handling of expense accounts for public relations and transportation and his lobbying activities.

In 1966, the auditing firm of Arthur Young and Company replaced the firm of White Bower and Prevo in compiling the Authority's annual audit.

In Arthur Young and Company's first and subsequent audits, there was a marked decline in money listed as spent for "travel and related expense," "committee and other meetings expense," "public relations and education," "convention expense," "Executive Director's expense," and "miscellaneous."

It was these areas that meant trouble for Gremore. It is unclear whether the difference under such items is being listed elsewhere in the budget or is simply not budgeted and not spent.

Recent study, however, disclosed a major discrepancy between the consolidated PCHA audit and the audits of the four separate hospitals under these items.

PCHA officials have said that such items in the consolidated budget represent the sum total of the same items in the individual audits.

A check of the totals from the hospitals, however, indicates that the figures are higher in their audits than those indicated in the consolidated report.

Such discrepancies were apparently enough to prompt the Attorney General to request the State Treasurer to look deeper into the auditing affairs of the Authority, although Mrs. Virtue would not disclose what her exact reasons were for the intensification.

Resignations from the two office managers have been accepted. Mathia's resignation is expected to be accepted at a meeting of the PCHA Finance Committee on Wednesday.

Mathia would make no comment concerning his resignation. PCHA officials indicate they will have a statement following Wednesday's meeting.

WATCHING THE SHOW — Although the Apollo astronauts were one of the main attractions at the 1971 National aviation and Space Exposition held at the Willow Run Airport last Saturday and Sunday, they did take time out to view the various exhibits and watch the aerial events. Astronaut James B. Irwin and his wife, Mary, were caught by our photographer, Lothar Konietzko, watching the stunts of the U.S. Air Force "Thunderbirds."

Inkster men arraigned on robbery charges

Three Inkster men stood route at their arraignment yesterday morning in U.S. Federal District Court on charges of bank robbery.

Charged with the $3,600 robbery Friday of the Belleville branch of the Bank of the Commonwealth at 11531 Belleville Rd. are Gordon Faust, 28, of 28219 Florence, Richard Foddard, 27, of 2984

Andover and Gerald Sealie, 22, of 27130 Norfolk.

A fourth man, the driver of the get-away car, is still being sought by police.

U.S. Magistrate Paul J. Komives set bond at $50,000 for Faust and Foddard and $25,000 for Sealie.

Witnesses told Wayne County Sheriff's deputies two men entered the bank through the front door while a third man entered by a rear door. The men had nylon stockings over their heads and were armed with revolvers.

The robbers escaped in a green 1963 Buick north on Belleville Rd.

Deputies found a car matching the description of the get-away vehicle abandoned on Hunt Street and Beverly roads in Romulus.

Faust was apprehended at 35865 Vinewood in Romulus after a commotion with the occupants of the home. A briefcase containing $3,568 and a .38 caliber revolver were discovered in the bathroom of the home.

Deputies arrested Sealie in a field south of Vinewood near Wayne Road. Goddard was arrested walking down Wayne Road.

William Holliday named new GM

William Holliday, a veteran of nine years as a newspaper executive and in advertising sales, has been named general manager of The Belleville Enterprise, Romulus Roman and The Daily Eagle in Wayne.

Holliday, who has worked at the Ypsilanti Press for the past five years, succeeds Robert J. Bradshaw, who is leaving to assume duties as general manager of the Wyandotte News Herald.

Plat plan referred to planners

Romulus City Council has deferred formal action on approving a tentative preliminary plat plan for the Beverly Industrial Park Subdivision.

The plat plans for the new industrial subdivision submitted by Ernest Klein, attorney for the developers, has been referred back to Romulus Planning Commission for clarification on street names, drainage and street extensions.

The appointments were announced by Eldon Gensheimer, regional general manager for Panax Corporation of East Lansing. Panax, which owns the Enterprise, Roman and Daily Eagle, purchased the News Herald and sold the Press in separate transactions over the weekend.

Holliday, 35, a native of Ann Arbor, graduated in 1953 from Ann Arbor (Pioneer) High School, after which he attended Eastern Michigan University. He worked for five years on the Ann Arbor police force before joining the Ann Arbor News in 1962 as a classified advertising salesman.

He transferred to the Ypsilanti Press in 1966 as a retail advertising salesman, later serving as assistant advertising manager and advertising manager. He was appointed assistant to the general manager at the Press in January.

A 10-year veteran of the Air National Guard, attaining rank of staff sergeant, Holliday also has been a member of several professional and civic associations, including the Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce and the Ypsilanti Industrial Development Corporation.

Holliday, who still resides in Ann Arbor, and his wife, Nancy, have two children, Billy, 10, and Lisa, 8.

Bradshaw, a native of Flint, previously worked at the Ypsilanti Press and the Flint Journal. Just prior to joining the Eagle in June of last year, he had been controller of the Press.

New airport plan won't please area residents

By PAM WATT

Another plan for the expansion of Willow Run Airport in Van Buren Township was presented to the county last week, but groups and residents already protesting the Wayne County Road Commission plan aren't going to be any happier with the second one.

The new plan was outlined by Robert Pangborne, manager of the Willow Run Airport, to the Transportation, Industrial and Commercial Development Committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. Although this plan was completed in February, 1970, it was the first time it had been discussed publicly.

The road commission submitted a proposal in February calling for expansion of the facility in order to make it the world's largest air cargo airport. The county hopes to acquire the airport from the University of Michigan.

The proposal described by Pangborne Friday was requested by General Motors officials of the University of Michigan, he said, and conducted by Landrum & Brown of Cincinnati, Ohio. Pangborne emphasized it was "not a master plan" or "official study" and has not been accepted by the U of M Board of Regents.

The proposal calls for the extension of runways to the southwest, instead of to the northeast as suggested by the road commission study. Estimated cost would be $30 million, which does include cost of land acquisition, relocation of high tension lines, aircraft parking ramps and other considerations, Pangborne said.

The road commission study had recommended expansion plans totalling $100 million, but James M. Davey, managing director of the road commission, which operates Detroit Metropolitan Airport, said the costs of both plans were about the same.

Although at Friday's meeting he described both plans as "not comparable" and utilizing "two entirely different approaches," Davey said they would each require the same thing—elimination of about 200 homes, the Van Buren Township Hall, Quirk Elementary School, and North Junior High School in the area bounded by Beck Road, Belleville Road, I-94 Expressway and Van Born Road.

Davey said the plan described by Pangborne presented several problems not encountered in the road commission plan, specifically, having to cross a county line, having to contend with greater development to the southeast, and running into a major highway.

Pangborne pointed out the proposal has several shortcomings, including the fact that there are no hangars or facilities proposed to handle in-bound freight and that it "puts the airport at the mercy of a private corporation."

He indicated that phase two of the study would be a thorough land use study of the area.

Neither plan could be expected to gain the approval of local residents or groups protesting the airport expansion plan, since both would require, according to Davey, the removal of homes and schools.

The Van Buren Homeowners Association has rallied extensive support against the proposal, contending the end result would be detrimental to the area.

Pangborne told the group that it was his personal opinion that "if Wayne County can present to the University of Michigan a workable, feasible plan, I will recommend letting the county acquire the airport."

"I don't think the university is enthused about being in the airport business," he said when questioned about how he felt the university would react to the offer.

Longer hours approved for city pool rooms

Owners and operators of pool room establishments in Romulus have been granted longer hours of operation by the City Council.

An amendment to the city's Billiard and Bowling Ordinance revising and extending the hours of operation from midnight to 2 a.m. was approved by the council at its Sept. 7 meeting.

The council's action followed an urgent plea made by Steve Elephant, owner and operator of Cue Corners, located at Ecorse Road and Farnum Street.

The amendment is the second one in recent weeks by the council. The ordinance had originally set the closing hour of pool rooms at 2 a.m. This was later changed to midnight at the request of some council members, but last week the council approved by a 5 roll call vote revising the closing hour back to 2 a.m.

Council President Jimmie Raspberry felt the midnight closing hour should stand and voted against any extension.

Elephant, who has operated his pool room for the last three years, reported to the council he has had no trouble with police in the operation of his business. He said the midnight closing hour would eventually force him to close down.

He added that many of his customers have asked for the closing hour extension. There are eight pool rooms in the city and if any one has trouble it can close earlier than 2 a.m.

Raspberry said he had received reports of police calls to the pool room and added he felt with crime as it is today, all pool rooms should close at midnight.

Elephant told Raspberry the police calls were made by an area resident who complained of persons parking at his residence.

Councilman James C. Stewart stated "We have never had trouble in the three years he operated the pool room. You have more trouble at bars. You are not solving the crime problem by keeping the midnight closing hour."

A motion to amend the ordinance by extending the midnight closing hour for pool rooms to 2 a.m. was made by Councilman William M. Oakley. He was supported by Councilman Edmund W. Bizak, who said, "We asked for a police report. It is good. I take into consideration that a lot of business from 12 to 2 a.m. is from airport traffic. I am willing to give him a chance."

City Council will meet tomorrow

The regularly scheduled Romulus City Council meeting of Sept. 9 has been deferred until tomorrow (Thursday) by city council.

The postponement of the Sept. 9 session was due to two council meetings falling within the same week.

Suthers died in Wayne County General Hospital Sept. 8, after a long hospital stay.

The young boy fell into a swimming pool at the home of friends, at 37561 Barth, Romulus, on June 18. He was rushed to Annapolis General Hospital, Wayne, by Romulus fire department and revived. He was later transferred to Wayne County General.

James is survived by two brothers, Michael and Howard Jr., and three sisters.

Rev. John Baker of the Free Methodist Church of Wayne officiated at the services.

Hearing slated on stadium

A public hearing on the proposed construction of a domed sports stadium will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday) in the auditorium of the City-County Building, Detroit.

The hearing will be conducted jointly by a special stadium committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and the five-member Wayne County Stadium Authority.

The stadium authority will detail plans for financing the construction and operation of the stadium, plus the architectural features of the project.

The stadium, expected to cost $100-$150 million, is proposed to be built at no cost to the taxpayers through issuance of revenue bonds. The bonds would be paid for through rents collected from the sports teams and other stadium tenants.

The County Board of Commissioners will be asked to place the county's faith and credit behind the bond issue.

Council defers action on liquor license bid

An attempt by Holiday Inns of America to get Romulus City Councils approval to purchase a Class C Liquor License from the northern section of Michigan for its Romulus based Holiday Inn proved unsuccessful when presented to the City Council last week.

The council deferred any action on the request until a legal opinion is received from City Attorney John E. Young.

The City of Romulus has been allotted six new Class C Liquor Licenses for 1971 by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission. An increase in the city's population shown in the 1970 U.S. Census resulted in the allotment.

The city officials have received 57 applicants seeking Class C Licenses, including Holiday Inn and the new Ramada Inn, 8270 Wickham Rd., Romulus.

Council members are currently reviewing the applicants.

At last week's council session, counsel for Holiday Inn reported he was told by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission to obtain council's permission before starting to make arrangements to purchase a Class C license from another community.

He stated that Holiday Inn is attempting to buy a license and in doing so would not affect the granting of the six new licenses by Romulus.

He added that some indication from council "that it would permit us to do this would assist us in getting started."

Some members of council questioned the legality of granting such permission without a thorough investigation and report on if it would reduce the number of new Class C licenses.

Delivery announced for new brochure

Barber announced that a person-to-person distribution of the brochure will begin with Independence Square, one of Belleville's newest subdivisions, on Saturday, Sept. 25.

Parent-teacher talks reinstated

As part of the teacher's contract signed last week with the Romulus Board of Education, there is a provision for district parent teacher conferences. They are scheduled for Nov. 10 and March 15.

According to the school board, junior and senior high school conferences were dropped from last year's school program due to a lack of parental participation.

The area PTA Council, acting in behalf of its membership, requested that such conferences be reinstated.

As a result of a cooperative effort between parents and teachers, provisions for conferences were included in this year's negotiations and agreed upon by the board's negotiators.

Mrs. Fran Petre, council president, said her group was pleased by the action and would work actively to encourage parents to make use of the opportunity to meet and work with teachers to better understand their mutual problems at the secondary levels.

Q. Why are there fewer church funerals these days than formerly? Is it because of additional expense or higher costs?

A. The first question is more of an incorrect statement than a question. Your statement does not apply, for example, to Catholic funerals. For Protestant funerals, we prefer to have your question answered by your minister. When we conduct a service, we ALWAYS follow the wishes of the family and their clergyman. The service can be held in church or in our funeral home. The religious ceremony is always governed by practices of the denomination - and - we serve ALL faiths. In answering your second question, our charge is the same for a church service or in the funeral home...

What's to happen after freeze lifted?

The major question arising from President Nixon's economic message to a joint session of Congress last week is what happens after the end of the 90-day wage-price freeze he declared Aug. 15.

In accordance with previous announcements, he called on the Congress to enact a tax package that includes repeal of the 7 per cent excise tax on autos, a 10 per cent tax-write-off privilege on business investments and acceleration of already-scheduled individual tax relief by one year.

The President said the tax package, already before the House Ways and Means Committee, would mean $3.2 billion in tax relief to individuals and a $2.7 billion tax incentive to business, and would open the door to 500,000 new jobs.

But his announcement that he had no intention of extending the wage-price freeze brought speculation as to the potential impact on the wage-price inflationary cycle after the 90 days.

He announced plans for meeting with representatives of Congress, business, labor and agriculture to discuss some other "system of wage and price stabilization."

But he gave every indication that it would be more of a voluntary than compulsory nature when he declared:

"Regimentation and government coercion must never become a way of life in the United States. Price and wage stabilization, in whatever form it takes, must be only a way station on the road to free markets and free collective bargaining in a new prosperity without war."

The Democratic-controlled Congress is challenged to place the interests of the country above partisan politics in dealing with the Republican president's long-range anti-inflation and job-boosting plans.

But the president, it seems to us, by announcing less than one-third of the way through the 90-day wage-price freeze that it will not be continued, has undercut much of his position of bargaining strength.

With much of labor contending that the freeze has put some workers in a more advantageous position than others because of new contracts and substantial wage increases already effective, there will be "catch-up" temptation facing the disadvantaged at the freeze's end. And the same will be true of those businesses caught with prices at lower levels than they believe are needed. They also will be tempted to "catch up." Economists are cautioning that, unless the government devises far-reaching preventive machinery, a wave of pent-up inflation will wash across the nation when the wage-price freeze ends in mid-November. Some predict that three months is not enough time to produce any long-range curtailment of the inflationary trend.

The president, in effect, has bought time to combat inflation and increase employment. But further imaginative presidential leadership is needed toward action of a more permanent nature that can and will command effective support from the American public labor and management, consumer and producer alike. Otherwise an immediate battle may have been won by a war lost.

With the president's announcement that the freeze will not be continued, he assumes an even greater responsibility for providing the needed "imaginative leadership" in the anti-inflation battle.

Speaking of schools

School taxes needed in July

By ROBERT L. MCCONEGHY, Superintendent of Romulus Schools

In order to meet its financial obligations at various times throughout the year, the Romulus Board of Education has to resort to the only avenue open to it - that of borrowing money.

Legally, two sources of funds may be borrowed against: a) anticipated state aid, and b), current taxes.

The Romulus Board of Education has had to use both of these sources for the past three years. Loans against anticipated state aid usually are due on Sept. 1. of the next fiscal, while loans against current taxes must be paid by April 1 following the tax collection.

Last week the Board of Education received bids on a $1,500,000 tax anticipation note. The funds from this loan will be used to release withheld checks to vendors and to meet payroll obligations.

Most boards of education find themselves in a financial bind when school starts in the fall. A large number have found their operating budgets have increased from 10 percent to 15 percent over the previous year and most do not have any operating money to start the new school year.

The solution - borrow money.

Many districts do not receive any substantial operating funds until after the December tax collection. Those of you who have had to borrow money know that the interest paid on the loan is an important item. So it is with school district borrowing...it must also pay interest.

The money paid out in interest means that much less for the instructional program.

This brings me to the point of this article.

In order to have operating money in September and save interest costs, the Romulus Board of Education is requesting approval from the Romulus City Council for the school district to participate in the summer tax collection. If approved, this would not mean the school district would ask that all school taxes be paid at that time - just a percentage. This action may meet with disfavor with some taxpayers; however, it may be that most would welcome the opportunity of meeting a portion of their tax obligation in July rather than get hit with the whole thing at Christmas time.

If the City Council approves the request of the Romulus Board of Education it would not become effective until July 1, 1972. If it can be worked out, though, it will mean a savings of several thousands of dollars in interest cost to the school district; besides the time and effort involved in negotiating the various loans.

ONE MAN, ONE VOTE

lock may end

By Edward E. Mahafak
State Representative
38th District

It had been the intention in the House to place the proposition before voters in a November special election.

In an effort to move the tax relief plan onto the ballot, a compromise plan which would eliminate the graduated income tax issue, which had drawn partisan opposition has been offered. Voters, therefore, could vote simply on the property tax matter in either November this year or, in April, 1972.

The proposed constitutional amendment would provide that the increase in the flat-rate tax, which would be necessary to pick up the costs of school operations, would be self-executing so that there could be an equitable transition from the property tax base. The tax on business would be imposed by statute but enacted conditionally prior to the public referendum.

Under the compromise, voters would be permitted to vote in November, 1972, on the constitutional amendment to switch from the flat-rate to the graduated income tax. The graduated tax, based on ability to pay, would be scaled to 13 brackets of income. Each successive bracket would have a basic factor which is 1-20th of 1 percent more than the previous bracket.

The legislature would have the right to alter brackets but only under constitutional rules that maintain the same graduations and the 13 brackets. The proposal for the November, 1972, election also would provide for an escalator clause on the $1,200 personal tax exemptions to insure that the value of the exemption is maintained down through the years.

Hopefully, the compromise offer will end the deadlock over the plan. However, opposition to the graduated tax has been firm and it could stymie any Senate action on any or all of the tax reform proposals.

An alternative would be a petition drive to put the matters on the ballot. If enough citizen petitions are obtained, it would automatically place the proposition before voters.

The House has voted to create a special committee to study nursing homes and their operation. The special five-member committee will be appointed by the speaker. Its members will conduct their studies between now and the start of the 1972 session of the legislature. They will report their findings and recommendations to the 1972 legislature.

The committee will center its studies on laws relating to nursing homes which according to the resolution creating the committee, appear to require the reconsideration of the legislature.

The resolution points out that nursing homes are private enterprises fulfilling a need of a largely public character, in providing convalescent care for the elderly and the ill. It notes that a substantial question has arisen as to the ability of nursing homes to offer adequate care for the elderly and ill within a range which the public can reasonably afford.

It was stressed that it is essential to the welfare of the people of Michigan that adequate care be available and available at reasonable prices. Therefore, it was felt that there should be a review of laws related to the establishment and operation of nursing homes.

To the editor:

Congratulations to the 137 ads sponsoring "Open Season on School Children." It proves that small business and big business are behind the safety of school children.

I noticed Councilman Kenneth McKee and the Inkster Fire Department and the Inkster Police Department. Where are the other departments?

P.O. Box 'Drugs'

As a service to our readers, the Enterprise-Roman is printing this release from the Community Commission on Drug Abuse. Send all letters to the Commission, P.O. Box 1000, Detroit, Mich. 48201.

Q. Isn't there anyway to stop drug abuse by stopping production of any kind of drugs that get abused?

Mrs. M.S. Livonia

A. No way. After all, the term "abuse" implies that there is a good or legitimate use that is being improperly channeled. To implement your idea we would have to stop production of all drugs for severe pain, of all general anesthetics, of all tranquilizers - and the list is much longer.

Another problem is the fact that not merely drugs, but a whole list of other chemicals, are being abused: such things as paint thinners, cleaning fluids, commercial solvents for example. Some kids have tried to get high inhaling gasoline, and some have died in the attempt. Does this mean that this nation should have it's transportation system come to a halt?

What it means is that although we should make every effort to control the production and distribution of substances - such as heroin - which serve no earthly good, we must address ourselves to the problem of educating our children and ourselves to live in a world literally inundated with chemicals of almost every sort imaginable.

Q. Isn't it true that the really dangerous drugs are synthetic chemicals? A lot of kids I've talked to say that natural drugs like marihuana and mescaline are safe, or at least a lot safer than the other man - made chemicals.

A. As in most falsehoods, there's a small grain of truth in this idea. Agreed that marihuana and mescaline are safer - but only relatively safer - than synthetics such as "speed" (a dangerous stimulant) or LSD (powerful mind-altering drug). But the concept begins to break down almost immediately. What about the semi-synthetics - naturally occurring chemicals slightly altered by man? Should they be only half-dangerous? Considering that heroin is a classic example of this half-natural, half-synthetic category) the answer would have to be "No."

It should be pointed out that one of the most dangerous and deadly adulterants used in drugs of abuse is the poison, strychnine. This drug is a natural substance found naturally in certain naturally - growing plants.

Ten festivals, special events on state calendar

Ten special events and festivals—ranging from an antique show sale to a duck hunters tournament—highlight the state's tourism calendar for early fall, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Where to go and what to do this fall is shown on Auto Club's 12th in a series of 14 feature maps.

Dealers from at least 25 states are expected for the Midwest's largest antique show, the Detroit Antique Show Sale from Sept. 22 to 26 at the Light Guard Armory. Approximately 150 exhibits will be featured. Persons with broken antique clocks or music boxes can get them repaired.

The 24th annual Michigan Duck Hunters Tournament on Sept. 19 at Rockwood should draw nearly 20,000 spectators to this small Southeast Michigan city. Duck hunters from the U.S. and Canada will perform in skills contests for cash and prizes.

Scottville's 35th Harvest Festival will be highlighted by the famed Scottville Band, a 180-unit parade, beauty contest and ox roast. The event runs Sept. 16 to 18.

Harvest Festivals also are scheduled at Marquette, Sept. 23 to 25, and Hastings, Sept. 18 to 19. Agricultural exhibits will be emphasized at both festivals.

Albion's Festival of the Forks, Sept. 25, will acknowledge the many nationalities and cultures which are represented in the city. A flea market, carnival and parade are among the day's major attractions.

A tour of four major wineries awaits visitors to Paw Paw's Grape Festival, Sept. 23 to 26. Other events include a parade, turtle derby and three-block midway.

Saginaw's Timbertown Festival at Ojibway Island, Sept. 25 to 26, will feature log rolling events in the Saginaw River, square dancing and a replica of a lumbering village of the 1800's.

Approximately 15,000 are anticipated for the Midwest Decoy Tournament at Monroe, Sept. 19.

The National Coho Salmon Festival is set for Sept. 24 to 26 at Honor.

'Fiddler on the Roof' tickets are on sale

Tickets for Wyandotte Community Theatre's production of "Fiddler on the Roof" are now on sale. The smash musical will open Oct. 1, and runs for three weekends—Oct. 1, 2, 3, Oct. 8, 9, 10, and Oct. 15, 16, 17—at Wyandotte's Woodrow Wilson Junior High School, 15th Street at Goddard Road. Curtain is 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, 7:30 p.m. Sundays.

"Fiddler on the Roof" is the Broadway hit based on stories by Sholom Aleichem. The play, set in Tsarist Russia prior to the Revolution, tells the story of the Jewish dairyman Tevye and his attempts to acquire suitable husbands for his five unmarried daughters.

A number of songs from the play—including "Matchmaker," "If I Were A Rich Man," and the haunting melody, "Sunrise, Sunset,"—have been popularized by recording artists the world over.

Cast in the starring role of Tevye, the Jewish dairyman of Tsarist Russia, is Hershel Long, last seen in WCT's production of "Guys and Dolls." Betty J. Booher, of Wayne, plays Tevye's wife, Golde.

Tickets for the WCT production of "Fiddler on the Roof" may be reserved by calling Jim Jones at 873-7510 during business hours. Tickets are $3.25 for adults, $2.50 for students. Group rates are available.

Season tickets are also on sale. Price of the season tickets, which includes admission to all five of WCT's scheduled productions, is $12. Besides "Fiddler," other productions this season include "I Never Sang For My Father," Dec. 1 through 4, "Come Blow Your Horn," Jan. 21 through 23 and 28 through 30, "The Lion in Winter," March 23 through 26, and "The King and I," May 12 through 14 and 18 through 21.

Season tickets may be ordered from Mrs. JoAnn Hunyor by calling her at 675-2942.

Ceramics, sculpture slated at Cranbrook

A retrospective exhibition of works by two of the better known artists associated with Cranbrook Academy of Art—Majja Grotell, ceramist, and Carl Milles, sculptor—will be shown in the Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries Tuesday through October 31.

Exhibited concurrently with these works will be 50 masks—decorative, ceremonial and entertaining—in the new, permanent Young People's Museum.

Miss Grotell, internationally renowned ceramist, was head of the Academy's ceramics department from 1938 to 1966, almost from the Academy's founding in 1932.

Her ceramics are virtually all vessels, which have been described as "powerful, secure and stable, yet they stand softly." Her dazzling colors and "unequaled range of surfaces" make her vessels "confident and powerfully rhythmic."

Miss Grotell, said to be one of those responsible for the major change in the American pottery concept from one of production to that of an art, was born in Helsingfors, Finland, in 1899.

Among the many prizes and honors she has received are the prestigious Charles Fergus Binns Medal in 1961; silver medal at the 1937 Paris International Exposition; and the Diploma of Colaborador at the 1929 International Exposition in Barcelona.

Carl Milles (1875-1955), the internationally known Swedish sculptor whose works dot the Cranbrook grounds and buildings, was resident sculptor and head of the Academy's sculpture department from 1931 to 1950.

His massive yet graceful works, mostly in bronze, are described as possessing "a surface gentleness, a voluptuous calm which is soothing and relaxing, yet at the same time (are) as volcanic and deceptive as the calm of a beautiful woman".

Called a "scholar with reverence for the past", Milles' sculptures often deal with Scandinavian folklore, mythology and Christian subjects.

The masks in the Young People's Museum, which will continually show exhibits geared to younger audiences, represent modern and ancient cultures from around the world.

American Indian masks as well as those from Europe, Africa, Mexico, Indonesia, South America and India will be included.

Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries, 500 Lone Pine Road, are open 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays, closed Mondays and major holidays.

Antiques are for men at fall show and sale

Antiques are for men, and men really take their antiquing seriously according to several exhibitors in the Detroit Fall Antiques Show-Sale, in the Light Guard Armory, next Wednesday through Sunday.

Far from the stereotype of the husband who tolerates antiques as one of his wife's whims, men often become more knowledgeable than the distaff members of their household, especially when a particular category of antique becomes their collecting specialty.

Men will find an abundance of their favorite antiques in the 150-exhibit Detroit Fall Antique Show which will fill two floors of the Light Guard Armory with its glittering displays.

If tools and architectural instruments are his forte, one dealer has a wood and brass, hand-crafted scribing tool, known as a divider, and almost a yard in height, a rare find.

The same exhibitor, Helen Tallman, of Helen's Antiques, has a pair of kerosene burning brass lamps that were an add-on accessory for automobiles when autos were still called motor cars or gas buggies and the cautious motorist was wise to have auxiliary lights that did not depend on the car's ignition system.

A small, odd shaped wooden box that looks somewhat like a low-ceilinged birdhouse proves to be an ingeniously contrived handmade mousetrap. The Tallmans have never run across another exactly like it, and they conclude that this was not the mousetrap that caused the world to beat a path to the maker's door.

A small apothecary's scale has its working parts and trays all enclosed behind panels of heavy bevelled glass, lest the delicate balance be disturbed by even a slight breeze.

A few aisles over from the Tallman exhibit, Mrs. Helen Roth has a sturdily constructed model of an early airplane, every part hand made from wood or metal.

For antiques that have sound and action, there is a Gem Parlor Organ, complete with six disks, in Betty White's exhibit. Linda Martini of B &

L. Antiquerie has a five-foot tall popcorn machine, housed in a walnut wood cabinet and topped with a glass ball. She also has a huge, ornate cash register, suitable to stores of the same era as the popcorn machine.

Whatever the category or price range desired, there really is something for everyone at the Detroit Fall Antiques and Collectors Show.

Free parking for show visitors is provided on the grounds. Hours of the Detroit Fall Antique Show-Sale, Sept. 22 through 26 at the Light Guard Armory, 4400 East Eight Mile Road, are from 1 to 11 p.m. daily, except on the final day, Sunday, Sept. 26, when it is open from 1 to 9 p.m.

MAGIC MARSHALL — Eddie Jaye, official Deputy Marshal of Jay, Okla., will soon be appearing in Wayne area schools with his friend "Bronco Bennie". Eddie Jaye, a Detroit comic-magician for over 10 years, was named Deputy Marshal of Jay, Okla. in recognition of his efforts to teach children safety and renew an interest in the American West through the "Magic Marshal" character. Schools and organizations can call 398-5357 for more information.

Astronauts get warm welcome

Astronaut Worden said, "It takes great teamwork if you want to get to the moon. We relied on each other for our very lives. We sure had to rely on many people for the success of the moon mission. The thought I'd like to leave with you is that to get things done it takes teamwork. You have demonstrated that here."

Astronaut Irwin told the crowd, "We are glad to be here. I am grateful to be back on earth. It was really a discipline of mind and spirit, a discipline we had to rely on in the operation of the space craft. We had the confidence of team mates here."

"It was the proudest moment of my life when I saluted the American flag on the moon," he added.

The astronauts, instead of collecting moon rocks as they did on their moon trip, collected a sample of Huron Township "rich" earth.

Supervisor Moore presented each astronaut with a miniature container filled with Huron Township soil. Township officials in turn were presented with various photographic views of Apollo 15's moon shot and the astronauts' expedition

MADE HONOR MICHIGAN PILOTS — Apollo 15 astronauts, featured guests and one of the major attraction at the National Air Show at Willow Run Airport Saturday and Sunday, were made honor Michigan pilots by the Michigan Aircraft Pilots Association. Announcing the honor was James V. Votta,

NOT EXACTLY MOON DUST — Apollo 15 astronauts collected some new land samples instead of moon rocks last Saturday when they participated in Huron Township's first police and firemen's field day festivities. Township Supervisor George W. Moore (right) presents miniature dust pans containing Huron Township soil to (from left) James B. Irwin, Alfred M. Worden and Apollo 15 Commander David R. Scott. The astronauts addressed area youth, were honored guests at a elaborate luncheon at St. Stephens Church Hall and departed for the air show at Willow Run Airport.

Thousands turn out to greet astronauts

The 1971 National Aviation and Space Exposition held at the Willow Run Airport, Ypsilanti, last Saturday and Sunday was viewed by an estimated 125,000 persons.

The first day's crowd was reported at 75,000 persons. Inclement weather during the second day dropped spectator count to an estimated 50,000 the State Police reported.

From the standpoint of exhibits and featured events, this year's air show was a tremendous success, officials reported.

The listed program was highlighted by the appearance of the Apollo 15 astronauts, David R. Scott, commander of Apollo 15's crew, James B. Irwin, who with Scott explored the moon's surface, and Alfred M. Worden, who piloted the command module "Endavour."

The air show also featured the famed United States Air Force "Thunderbirds," the world's champion Army parachute team "Golden Knights," aerobatic pilots the famous R.A.F. "Spitfire" of World War II, and stunt pilots.

The latest in army aircraft and space equipment, including the U.S. Army C-5 plane, the largest military aircraft in the world, attracted large crowds.

Huron Township's first police and firemen's field day was reported a smashing success by officials.

The event, highlighted by the appearance of the Apollo 15 astronauts, attracted thousands of residents from nearly all sections of Western Wayne County.

The police and firemen's field day parade was viewed by about 10,000 persons, one of the largest crowds in the history of the township.

Parade entries were from police and fire departments, high schools and civic and service organizations from Huron Township and neighboring communities.

A pictorial review of the event, which is to become an annual affair, is displayed on this page.

THUNDERING THROUGH THE SKY — Western Wayne County residents had a chance to view some of the world's best precision flying this weekend at Willow Run Airport at the 1971 U.S. National Aviation and Space Exposition. Thundering above the heads of the spectators were the world-famous

U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds, demonstrating one of their maneuvers. On hand for the show were astronauts Col. David R. Scott, Lt. Col. James B. Irwin and Maj. Alfred M. Worden, most recent moon visitors. (See pictorial review for more on astronauts' visit to show and Huron Township parade.)

CLOSE FORMATION — The famed United States Air Force "Thunderbirds" display one of their many close formations during the National Aviation and Space Exposition held at Willow Run Airport last Saturday and Sunday. Record crowds watched the precision flying team and well as other featured aerial acts and exhibits of aircraft and space equipment.

POSING WITH APOLLO 15 ASTRONAUTS — Members of the Huron Township Board of Trustees, administrative aides and Congressman William D. Ford posed with the astronauts, Col. David R. Scott, Lt. Col. James B. Irwin and Maj. Alfred M. Worden, minutes after their arrival in New Boston last Saturday. The astronauts highlighted the community's first police and

THE 4-H FAIR QUEEN — The 4-H Branding Irons Club of New Boston presented the 1971 Wayne County 4-H Fair Queen, Miss Jean Otter, along with her attendant, at the parade.

Featured on the float was the 25th anniversary cake of the 4-H Fair (which, by the way, was wooden).

HURON'S SPACE FLOAT was one of the exciting parade floats to greet the Apollo 15 astronauts last Saturday. It drew a considerable amount of applause from parade spectators. The unidentified little astronaut took it all in stride.

THE 'PEOPLE'S CHOICE' — was the title of the float entered in the parade by the Romulus City Council. Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael and Councilman Fred Junior Block delighted the crowds by donning women's garb, while the others dressed more conservatively in semi-western attire. Right are Councilman Albert Glin, Clerk Leonard J. Folmar, Block Carmichael and Councilman Bro. Edwards. Monkey protruding from highlights the float.

Belleville '11' launches campaign at Bedford

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Belleville's reputation on the prep gridiron has slipped over the last decade and whether Keith Emerson, beginning his second year as the Tigers' head football coach can improve upon the image awaits to be seen.

Last year the veteran coach, who served as head coach at Dearborn Heights Robichaud for over 10 years and also coached in the Upper Peninsula before accepting the challenge at Belleville, managed to find two victories in nine starts.

Better attitude plus a hard-working crew makes Emerson feel confident about the pending season which will begin Friday night at 8 p.m. (7 p.m. DST) at Bedford Temperance.

"Our over-all program has paid off," said Emerson. "These boys have a much more positive attitude towards work. They hustle and show a sincere desire to want to play football."

"With this type of attitude I know we are going to improve on last year's record."

Though the subjective — attitude and desire — definitely will help out — there are a few other concrete reasons for Emerson's optimism.

Quarterback Mike Garland, who is likely to snatch most of the headlines in this year's campaign, fullback Tony Ogeltree, halfbacks Mike Dansard and Charles Boddie, along with All-Conference tackle Keith Simons (6-foot-4, 240-pounds) have generated a lot of enthusiasm in preseason practice and scrimmage.

Lettermen Bill Hennells, center (5-foot-9, 175-pounds), John Alford, guard (6-foot-0, 200-pounds), Gary Krajewski, guard (5-foot-11, 175-pounds), Mike Beck, end (6-foot-3, 160-pounds) and Terry Pate, end (6-foot-2, 185-pounds) also are holdovers, who have shown they can do their job.

Belleville has two more league challengers this season in Dearborn and Edsel Ford. The two were accepted in the league, expanding the conference to eight teams.

Both high schools have outstanding football programs and have been serious title contenders in the now defunct Sauk Trail Conference.

However, the first task for the Tigers is nonleague rival, Bedford, who is a respected foe in the Great Lakes League where let year it finished with a 5-2-2 record.

TIGER OFFENSIVE GENERATOR — Belleville's offensive backfield will have an experienced look with quarterback Mike Garland returning to quarterback the Tigers. Also on hand for duty are Charles Boddie (24), Mike Dansard (38) and Tony Ogeltree (34). Belleville will tune up for the expanded Suburban 8 Conference with a nonleague tilt at Bedford-Temperance Friday night. Fans are cautioned that Bedford is on Daylight Savings Time, therefore, kickoff will be at 7 p.m. "Michigan time".

Huron takes on Grosse Ile

Improve on a 6-3 record? That's the goal of third year Huron head football coach Lee Smeltzer.

And the Chiefs will begin their climb, or descend, starting Friday night at Grosse Ile.

Though riddled by graduation, Smeltzer feels confident that the holdovers of a year ago, plus some impressive and opportunistic reserves, will be able to fill the gap to improve on a record which was the New Boston high school's finish in more than a decade.

Smeltzer is in his third year as head football coach at Huron. In his sophomore year, Smeltzer lifted the Chiefs out of the depths of the Huron conference cellar to a respectable 6-3 overall record, the best mark for the school in nearly two decades.

An All-Area cross country meet?

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

A "cross country meet to settle which of the 10 high schools harriers are the best in the area?"

Why not!

That's the question Jerry Szukaitis, Glenn's energetic cross country coach posed yesterday.

"It seems unfair to let the Western Wayne Invitational decide this outcome of the All-Area meet when some high schools which do not belong to this area also compete in that meet."

"I feel, and other area coaches agree, that there should be a specific All Area meet, like that which the newspaper conducts for track, in order that candidates for the team are selected."

Szukaitis pointed out discussions with other area cross country coaches brought out the necessity for such a meet, that the controversy surrounding the final choices would be eliminated, and that no coach would then have any reason to argue why his runner didn't make the All-Area.

"Last year some of the coaches felt we overlooked Szukaitis. 'This meet would be a final run', and if the candidate can make the grade, then, he'll earn his recognition."

In the past this newspaper has co-sponsored the annual Western Wayne Invitational in cooperation with Wayne Memorial and Coach Dick Miller, the originator of the meet.

That meet has served as the basis for our All-Area selections.

Weather poses problem

However, in that meet, Taylor high schools as well as Livonia Bentley have participated and the final results were not totally "all-area. Some of the invaders captured berths that would have normally gone to area athletes.

Therefore harriers, who weren't among the first ten finishers, had to make the mythical team via a coaches' poll. The poll usually and understandably reflected a coach's prediction for a member of his own team...stirring controversy.

An All-Area cross country meet, with teams from Wayne Memorial, Belleville, Glenn, Garden City East and West, Livonia Franklin and Churchill, Romulus, New Boston Huron, Cherry Hill, Inkster, and Robichaud would definitely decide which of the boys would make it.

"We feel if the boy makes it that day, then o.k. If not, then it's just too bad," said Szukaitis.

We agree with Szukaitis.

And will put the wheels in motion to get such a meet on the drawing boards.

Such a meet should be run after the regular season - and that could cause a problem. The State Finals will be conducted the first week in November and most of the area high schools have set aside the second week for their league meets.

So, that leaves the end of the second or the beginning of the third week of November as a possible date for such a meet.

How about those schedules, coach?

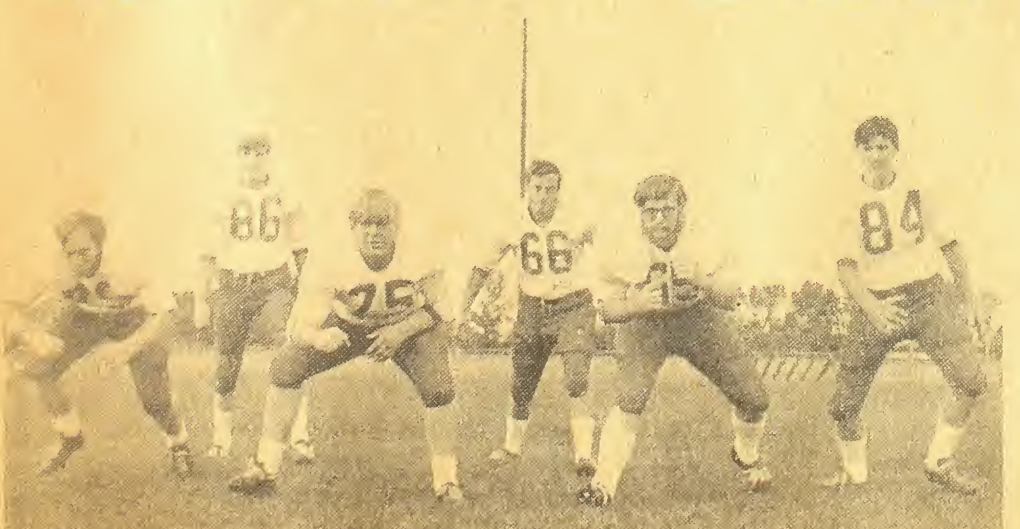

And it can get mighty cold in Michigan at that time.

But, if the runners and coaches don't mind a little snow or cold, surely we don't.

Cross country and golf coaches in the area also are urged to phone in the results of their meets immediately after contests.

Sports Editor Tom Mooradian, will be on hand to receive the information from 5 p.m. until midnight, while sports writer Dann Barkume will man the sports desk from 6 a.m. until 1 p.m.

The telephone number to call is 729-4000.

BETTER RECORD AHEAD? Third year Huron Coach Lee Smeltzer has placed his football sights on improving upon last year's record-establishing 6-3 over-all record. And he has talented prospects Jim Sitz (from left), Bill Grover (75), co-captain Ron Thompson (65), Ron Suemnick (84), Dan Clark (86), and Frank Cameron (66) to help him realize his ambitions. The Chiefs will take their blueprints for a winning season over to Grosse Ile Friday night (7:30 p.m.) to begin a 9-game season.

Romulus' "independence" begins Friday at Inkster.

Coach George Pratt's Eagles, who will not have an opportunity to compete for a league championship this season because of the dissolution of the Twin Valley, will have a chance to show independent rivals their strength.

And Inkster is first on the 9-game schedule.

Now that the Twin Valley conference has been disbanded, the Eagles will play all sports on a varsity level on an independent schedule. Romulus was unable to latch on with another league, but as Coach Pratt puts it, "We had only a few league games as it was. There were only four teams in HERE THEY COME — Winding up a gruelling pre-season session, Romulus' Eagles will hit the road Friday afternoon to test their skills against Inkster for their first test of the 1971 campaign. Earl Champagne, a 5-foot-10, 160 pound tackle, figures highly in Coach George Pratt's plot to make the Eagles' independent season a successful one.

Tiger harriers win 1st

Belleville's cross country contingent made short work of Ypsilanti in the season opener as the Tiger harriers swept their way to a 49-15 trouncing over the Braves in a meet held last Thursday at the Tigers' home course at Lower Huron Metropolitan Park.

Belleville swept the first six places with Jon Cross breaking the tape in first position with a time of 13:07.5. Cross was followed in order by, Lonnie Clark, Phil Combs, John Cicotte, Mark Davis and Gary Reffitt, all of Belleville. John Peters, also of Belleville finished in eighth position.

Coach Ken Head is optimistic about this year's squad, saying, "The team looks real good, we have good strength and are physically in shape for the season."

the Twin Valley, so we had only three league games and we will be meeting two of those this season. I really don't think it will make much of a difference, our boys are ready to play, believe me."

The Twin Valley officially dissolved in June. River Rouge, Ecorse, Willow Run and Romulus officially went their separate ways, but the Eagles will face both Rouge and Willow Run on the gridiron this fall.

Pratt is full of optimism as Merriwell has returned

Frank Merriwell, popular hero of the best-selling dime novels during the 1920's returns to today's book market in paperback and hard cover, according to its publisher, Smith Street Publications, Inc.

Jack Rudman, publishing company president, feels that the '70's are ripe for a timely Merriwell comeback.

"Today's times and conditions are very similar to that period when Merriwell flourished," Rudman said.

"Just compare the condition of the stock market, the Charleston, the Flapper, Beardsley drawings and Tiffany shades of the past with today's market, free dancing spirit, mini, Peter Max and rebirth of many things, including Tiffany shades," he added.

The saga of Frank Merriwell is overwhelming in volume. From 1896 to 1916, Gilbert Patten, under the pen-name of Burt L. Standish, wrote 986 Merriwell installments in Tip Top Weekly, a popular pulp magazine of that era. The stories were later rewritten and compiled in a total of 245 fascinating volumes The Maine-born author, who never attended college himself, died in 1945.

Who was Merriwell? He was the hero of the age, a young man who succeeded in everything he tried, honestly, and generally in the face of heavy odds.

He was an All-American, and the only civilian ever to be awarded the Congressional medal of honor. Yet, he was the type who would rather keep his personal word than win personal laurels; who would say nothing rather than 'rat' on an adversary. He had a double-shoot pitch which curved twice on the way to the plate. On the gridiron, at the stroke oar, anchoring a tug-of-war or protecting a girl's honor—he had no equal.

The Frank Merriwell series is credited with having shaped much of what today is considered the American Ethic, or the code by which "The Establishment" lives. In fact, Vice-President Spiro Agnew, last year publicly acknowledged a personal debt, saying that Merriwell had been a great influence on his life.

In this year of the superstar, and the great-put-on, the same qualities of Frank Merriwell that appealed to an older generation, are beginning to appeal to youth.

the current season opens. Coming off a 4-5 season in 1970, the Eagle mentor feels that the team is vastly improved. His optimism stems from a veteran packed offensive backfield, anchored by junior quarterback Virgil Smith.

Pratt admits that the offensive line shows signs of weakness with three holes left open by way of graduation. Mike Csaszar, everybody's all everything last year has graduated, but 6'3" 190 pound junior Darryl Gooden should make Csaszar real fast. Pratt is already talking about post season honors for the young lineman, who shows the potential to become one of the best linemen in the area.

Defensively, Pratt must rebuild around only two returning lettermen, but he plans on using some of his talent on both offense and defense, and the Eagles show enough football savvy this year to wrap up the loose ends.

"Some of the kids will go two ways," Pratt said, "But I feel that we have plenty of talent this year to fill all the holes."

The Eagles look big, strong and aggressive, and if they were in a league, they would certainly have to be considered contenders. For those teams that will have to face the Eagles this season, it looks like they are in store for a rough football game.

Pratt and his staff will field a talented and quick team that shows a lot of hustle and potential.

Independent or not, Romulus should have one of their finest seasons in recent years.

Tartars

As the 1971 football season began, Wayne State University had played 48 consecutive games without a tie. The last deadlock was a 0-0 contest against John Carroll in Coach Vern Gale's second game as head coach at WSU.

REAP shares cost of pollution programs

One of the programs of the United States Department of Agriculture that helps our nation's farmers perform conservation work on their land is the Rural Environmental Assistance Program known as the Agricultural Conservation Program prior to 1971.

This program shares with farmers the costs of carrying out approved conservation and pollution abatement practices on their land. Specifically, it helps them with land treatment measures and structures to control and manage water.

with their own resources to help advance the progress or organized watershed work and to accomplish more needed watershed conservation at a faster rate than would be possible using their own resources alone.

This upstream work on farmland has many downstream benefits.

Erosion control on the uplands keeps sedimentation to a minimum, protecting streams and reservoirs from choking and pollution. Holding water on the land keeps our water supply cleaner.

Also, a major contribution to flood prevention is accomplished by holding water on the land and keeping creeks and rivers within normal channels. USDA has estimated that it is not uncommon for the cost of removing a unit of sediment from roads, reservoirs and harbors to be twenty times the cost of keeping it in place on the land.

Smith said that under the 1970 ACP alone, about $19 million of cost-sharing was invested on 98,000 farms in Public Law 566, pilot and flood prevention watersheds.

About $235 million of ACP farmer's own funds, was invested in these watersheds during the sixteen years 1955-1970.

Nick Smith, chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said that watershed conservation and development work benefits everyone.

Reduced to its simpler terms, a watershed is an area of land from which water drains towards a single channel so every home, farm, lot in every town or city is within the natural boundaries of some watershed.

Small watersheds are natural, social, and economic units suitable for community development and conservation of water, soil woodland and related resources especially including wildlife. Such development involves individual farmers and woodland owners who own or control the agricultural lands that constitute the headlands of a watershed.

Voluntary cooperation of these landholders in proper management of land is essential to the success of watershed conservation and development programs.

Smith said that assistance obtained through REAP cost-sharing is authorized only for needed farmland conservation work properly installed. Conservation measures out on individual farms contribute to the total conservation accomplishments within the watershed where they are located.

Many farmers use REAP cost-share assistance along Funds approved for state police

Michigan State Police have been advised that $41,000 in federal funds has been approved and released for the third year of the department's operation of its helicopter in police traffic services, Col. John R. Plants, director, reported.

The sum covers the federal grant period from July 1 this year through next June 30. The grant period of three years began in 1969.

The department received $172,800 for its first year of the helicopter project, which included about $135,000 for the purchase of the craft from the Fairchild-Hiller Corp.

The second year federal aid amounted to $32,400. Total federal funding for the three-year period is $246,200.

Arrangements for the project and the financing were handled through the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning, whose director is Noel C. Bufe, and which is a division of the State Police.

After the federal assistance ends next year, the costs of the helicopter operation will be borne entirely by the department.

The State Police helicopter in the first seven months this year logged 463.4 hours in police traffic services. This included participation by the helicopter unit in the issue of 315 summonses for traffic violations, 13 assists to motorists, and the location of 75 abandoned vehicles.

The helicopter in the calendar year 1970 logged 837 hours and 83,775 miles in operations which included police traffic services as required under the federal grant.

There is no cost, nor a purchase required of any boy or parent.

Still in the planning stages for future meetings is an art contest sponsored by the PTO. Contest judging will be done by local senior citizens. The title of the contest is "What Did You Do This Summer?"

A book fair is planned for early fall. A parent-teacher volley ball game also will be held. Gym equipment purchased by the PTO has arrived and will soon be in use for the school students.

Mothers are needed to represent each classroom. Persons interested in becoming a room mother are asked to contact the school or any of the PTO officers.

Group meets Apollo 15 crew

CAPTAIN AND Mrs. John Roberts and their son-in-law and daughter, Mike and Vicki Barnett, were among those shaking hands with the crew of Apollo 15 Friday evening at the Raleigh House in Southfield.

Among the 1,000 guests attending the National Aviation and Space Exposition Banquet honoring the astronauts, they met the Colonels David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden, Jr. and James B. Irwin.

Other Bellevillites at the black tie affair were the Wally Hinks (he's president of the Michigan Aircraft Pilot's Association) who were among those in the receiving line.

For 'Astronaut's Day' at the Willow Run Airport Saturday, Captain Roberts shared his box seats with Johnnie Foorhees and his three sons from Chargin Falls, Ohio (week-end houseguests at the RobertsesLake Pointe Pass home), Ray Liebler, and neighbors Bob and Jim Wolters and Russell Squelch and son, Russ.

Russ, j.g., incidentally, is home on three weeks leave from his U.S. Air Force Duties. Having just completed O.T.S. courses at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, he is now wearing the bars of a Second Lieutenant. When time's up, he'll return to Laredo AFB for undergraduate pilot training for 48 weeks and then will be awarded his wings.

Terri Gamble is wardrobe winner

TERRI GAMBLE, the 13-year old daughter of the Richard Gambles of Expressway Drive, is quite possibly one of the best dressed gals in her eighth grade classes at North Junior High. Having entered Hadley's recent back-to-school contest (which merely entailed filling out a ballot), Terri was shocked but delighted when she learned her name had been drawn as winner.

Her prize - a $150 gift certificate - entitled her to a shopping spree at the Gault Village store where she selected a new winter coat and a number of other items. And it took only an hour and a half for Terri to choose the items which now fill her closet.

Farrugia's entertain daughters' friends

THE OPENING of school may not always be looked upon as a gala occasion but the 'going-back-to-school' party the Benny Farrugias tossed for their two daughters, Vickie and Susan, had just such a ring to it.

Inviting their fifth and sixth grade friends from Cory and Mt. Pleasant Schools to join the girls, the Gary Street Farrugias provided food for a cook-out, music for dancing and a pool for swimming. Another daughter, Mary, gave a hand with the activities.

The 5:30 to 7:30 event included Mike Guindon, Matt Sabo, Alan Zimmerman, Ricky Longoria, April and Ann Forella, Andrea Statan, and Danette Hamel.

MRS. FREDERICK L. ETCHEN

Double ring ceremony unites Etchen-Light

Roseanne Coleen Light, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Light of 11025 Borgman, Belleville, carried a bouquet of white mums, daisies, stephanotis, and baby's breath as she walked up the aisle of St. Anthony's Catholic Church to become the bride of Frederick L. Etchen.

Escorted by her father, she appeared in an empire-line gown fashioned of organza over bridal taffeta with Venice lace forming the fitted bodice and collar above the illusion yoke. Her long, fitted sheer sleeves and full, chapel train were frosted with lace appliques with the lace forming a border on the circular train.

Her French illusion veil fell to elbow length from a lace headpiece studded with seed pearls.

THE REV. RAYMOND S. Skoney presided at the double ring rite at seven o'clock in the evening before an altar graced with white mums tipped in lavender and blue.

Mrs. Janice Hampton of Wayne served as honor attendant for her best friend. She wore an aqua and printed empire line pant dress of taffeta and chiffon with long sleeves and a bishop collar. A matching bow secured her short veil and she carried a bouquet of aqua-tinted carnations and baby's breath.

THE BRIDEGROOM, son of Mrs. Mary Etchen of 23731 Harvard, Dearborn, asked his brother, Edward, to be best man. Others on the esquire side were Jan Burkholder and Robert Donahue, both of Dearborn, and Jerry Har-dacre of Detroit.

Susanne Light of Ypsilanti, the bride's twin sister; Mary Ann Denstone of Dearborn, the bridegroom's sister; and Lynn Light of Sarasota, Florida, the bride's sister-in-law, formed the bridal coterie. Their ensembles in lavender and print were identical to that worn by the matron of honor.

Six-year old Tracey Hood, daughter of the James Hoods, was flowergirl in an aqua and print empire dress with a matching headress. The basket she carried was filled with aqua-tipped carnations.

Carrying out the duties of ringbearer was Jeff Light, the seven-year old nephew of the bride.

At the P.N.A. Hall, where the reception was held, the 250 guests were greeted by Mrs. Light in a floor-length gown of blue crepe and taffeta and Mrs. Etchen in pale green chiffon. Both mothers were presented with corsages of white carnations and roses.

A graduate of Belleville High School, Roseann is employed at the A & P Store in Belleville. Her husband, a graduate of Sacred Heart High, served with the U.S. Navy and is now with Penn Central Railroad.

Following their honeymoon at Indian Lake, the newlyweds took up residence at Waters Edge Apartments, Belleville.

Martha-Mary Chapel is scene of Clemons-Patterson wedding

It was on her first visit to Greenfield Village when she was three years old that Janie Marie Patterson decided she'd someday be married at Martha-Mary Chapel. And that "someday" came to be August 21 as Janie became the bride of her high-school sweetheart, Ronald W. Clemons.

For the eleven o'clock nuptials in the tiny village church, the pews were adorned with wide, white satin ribbon bearing clusters of pink, blue, purple, and mauve straw flowers and sprigs of trailing green myrtle.

Some 150 guests were invited to the ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Patterson of 256 Roland Street, Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Clemons of 2535 Hearthside Drive, Ypsilanti.

JANIEWHO is the granddaughter of the late Rev. William Richards, a former pastor of the Belleville Methodist Church, asked her uncle, the Rev. William Richards of St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Rochester, to preside at her wedding.

Cathy Courtney, a college friend of the bride, performed as soloist during the double ring rite singing "Anything Love Can Buy" and "The Wedding Blessing" by Dossia.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, Janie appeared in a creation of ivory summer satin styled with an empire waist and chapel train with a front panel and Mandarin collar of re-embroidered Alencon lace. The bishop sleeves were distinguished by inserts of Alencon lace which were repeated on the long, buttoned cuffs.

Her silk illusion bouffant veil was held in place by a Camelot cap of Alencon flowerlets. Completing her bridal ensemble was a domed bouquet of pink, blue and purple bachelor buttons, pink rose buds, white button mums, purple statice, fresh pink and purple clover, stephanotis, varicolored straw flowers, and baby's breath.

KAE WENZEL of Belleville was her best friend's honor attendant with the bridegroom's sister, Deborah Clemons; the bride's college roommate, Mary Urbanski of Grand Rapids; and a close friend, Cathy Stabnau of Belleville, serving as bridesmaids.

Wearing identical fashions, the quartet was gowned in deep forest green chiffon dresses with white lace Mandarin collars. The lace motif was also used to circle the arm holes and to accent the bodices down to empire waists traced with bluish pink grosgrain ribbon, the same ribbon carried out on the hemline of the dresses.

They wore matching bluish pink straw picture hats with long pink streamers and carried nosegays of pink carnations, straw flowers, blue bachelor buttons, fresh clover, and purple statice backed with pink and forest green chiffon. The honor maid's bouquet was distinguished by a cluster of white button mums in the center.

Five-year-old Laurie Kirk, cousin of the bridegroom, performed as flowergirl in a floor-length white skimmer over pale pink taffeta with pink ribbon circling the waist. She wore a coronet of pink, blue and white bachelor buttons and straw flowers in her hair and carried a tiny basket filled with matching blooms.

MICHAEL C. PATTERSON, four, was his aunt's ringbearer wearing a white linen suit and carrying a white satin pillow.

Best man was Jay E. Hartford of Belleville. Others on the esquire side were head usher, Dave Clemons, brother of the bridegroom; Michael Farver of Alexandria, Virginia; Bill Wolters; and Charles W. Patterson, Jr., brother of the bride.

Following a carriage ride around the Village Square, the bridal party traveled to the Hilton Inn, Romulus, for the dinner-reception. Some 200 close friends and relatives were greeted by Mrs. Patterson in a celery green silk shantung dress with matching shoes and handbag. Mrs. Clemons chose for her son's wedding a mint green ensemble with harmonizing accessories. Both mothers added corsages of yellow rosebuds to their costumes.

Cindy Waderlou Gawinek of Rochester took charge of registering the guests while Joyce Choate of Clark Lake and Donna McAlvery of East Lansing cared for the gifts. All three are former college roommates of the bride.

THE TALL WEDDING cake, topped with a cluster of fresh flowers to compliment the bridal bouquet, was served in individual inscribed boxes to each guest. The floral centerpieces on each round table contained similar flowers.

Mackinac Island was the honeymoon destination for the newlyweds who are now making their home in Sterling Heights.

The new Mrs. Clemons, a senior at Central Michigan University, is practice teaching in Utica Schools this fall. Her husband attended Washtenaw Community College and Eastern Michigan University and is currently enrolled at Detroit Institute of Technology. He is employed by the Ford Motor Company on Sheldon Road, Plymouth.

Pre-nuptial parties for Janie were given by Kae Wenzel, Cathy Stabnau and Debbie Clemons at the home of Mrs. Andrew Krebs; by Mrs. William Amerman, Mrs. Henry Herkimer and Mrs. Edward Ellward at the former's home; and by Mrs. William Chizmar and Mrs. Miriam Mitchell at the home of Mrs. James McLean in Plymouth.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the Clemonses, was held at Lofy's in Plymouth with 28 people attending.

Willard-Suliman vows solemnized

With only the immediate family in attendance, Stephanie Suliman and John Willard exchanged nuptial vows and wedding bands August 21 at St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

The Rev. Charles Borowski officiated the nine o'clock ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Suliman of 48390 Willis Road, Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Willard of 19137 Huron River Drive, New Boston.

Bouquets of white mums adorned the altar as Stephanie approached with her father. She chose for her wedding day a fulllength gown of summer satin styled in the Victorian mode with a high neckline, empire bodice and full bishop sleeves enhanced with rows of vertical lace. Her circular train was later formed into a bustle effect at the back.

A PETALED LACE headpiece, embellished with seed pearling, held her illusion veil which fell to mid-back length and she carried a colonial arrangement of white carnations, baby's breath and greenery.

Wearing a pink chiffon frock over satin was the bride's only attendant, Jean Sircey of Belleville. Accessorying her empire dress were a matching veiled headpiece and bouquet of pink carnations and daisies. Richard A. Sircey of Belleville was best man.

Mrs. Suliman wore for her daughter's marriage a two-piece blue knit ensemble with silver trim. The bridegroom's mother donned a red and white outfit and both added carnation corsages to their dresses.

Following a reception at the Suliman home, the newlyweds departed for a week-long honeymoon in Indiana.

Both young people attended Belleville High School, the bride having graduated in 1970. Until her husband finds living quarters, Stephanie will reside with her parents and around the first of the year will join her soldier husband in the Netherlands.

Working to clean

Everybody knows what detergents do — but how do they work? Actually there are two principal ingredients in detergents: a surfactant and phosphate. The surfactant actually make the water "wetter" so that soil can be loosened from fabrics and other surfaces. The phosphate increases the efficiency of the surfactants, softens the water, keeps the dirt away from the laundry surface, and performs other necessary jobs to get our laundry clean.

Lutheran church sets for Belleville location

The Board of American Missions of the Lutheran Church in America (LCA), after careful study of the growth pattern of the area, has decided to establish a new Lutheran church to serve the Belleville area.

Presently, Wayne County numbers 35 LCA congregations with Transfiguration church of Taylor and Holy Cross of Westland nearest to the new proposed church in Belleville. To the west, Samaria Lutheran Church of Ypsilanti is nearest.

REV. HAROLD E. KOCH

Canada, and Highland, Ind. Pastor Koch entered the ministry after an 18 year lapse of time following graduation from high school in Chicago, Ill. During this period factory work, retail merchandising, production superintendency of a feed mill, and saleswork served as preparation for his ministry.

He was ordained in 1953, following graduation from Wittenberg University and Hama Divinity School in Springfield, Ohio. His first parish was in Park Hills, Covington, Ky., where he led the congregation in a building program that included the construction of the first of four church buildings constructed during his ministry.

Pastor and Mrs. Koch have three married daughters and ten grandchildren. The Kochs live at 45190 Jeannette, Belleville.

The house purchased by the Board of American Missions will serve both as parsonage and meeting place for the planning committee that will be selected soon to begin planning for the new congregation.

Pastor Koch will make a religious survey of the area assigned to the new parish. He will contact Lutherans and unchurched people in the community. Worship services will begin as soon as a sufficient number of people show interest in them. Sunday School classes also will begin within the near future.

For pastoral service he can be reached at 699-2111 or at the parsonage in Belleville.

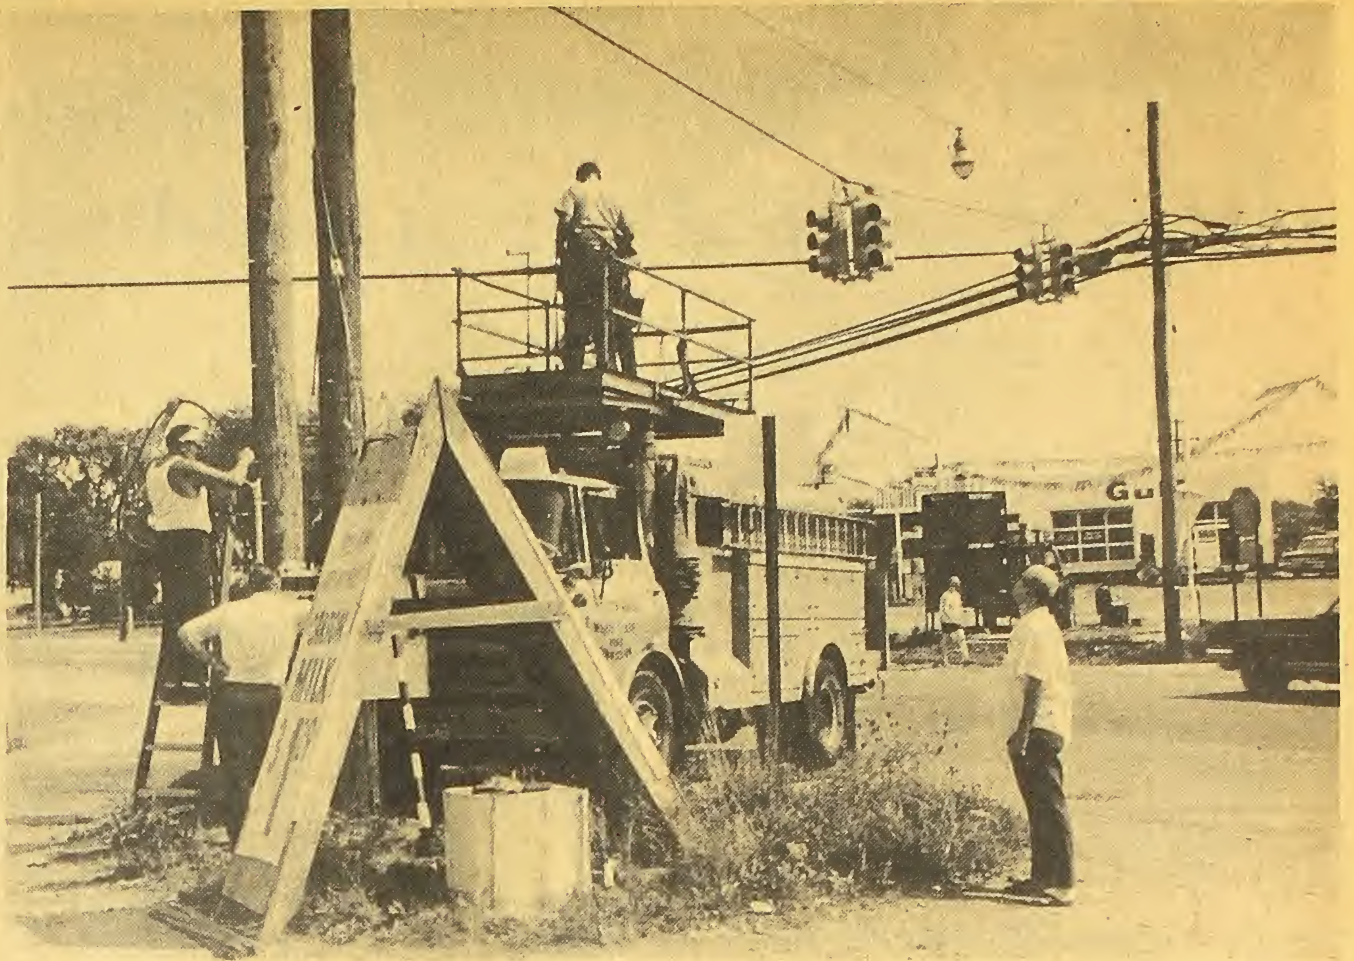

Area ministers from the Methodist, Episcopal, Catholic and Presbyterian churches met with Pastor Koch last Thursday at Richardson's Restaurant on Huron River Drive, Belleville, to discuss different events in which all area churches will be involved in the coming months.

The meeting also sought to form united action in future programs and events in the Belleville area, the Rev. Charles Dibley, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Belleville, reported.

Ordinances considered by council

Two new ordinances introduced by Romulus Council President Jimmie Raspberry at the Sept. 7 council meeting will be up for adoption at Thursday's session of City Council.

The ordinances involve unkempt premises and special assessments.

NEW TRAFFIC LIGHT — The Wayne County Road Commission has installed a traffic control signal at the intersection of Eureka and Inkster Roads, Romulus. Area residents led by Jerry Fillip, owner of the Jerry's Party Store, located at the intersection, have tried for many years to get a traffic light at the intersection without any success until a final appeal was made to State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus). The light was installed last Wednesday. Fillip reported that accidents at the location averaged two a week for some time. Watching the installation of the signal is Jerry (right).

Traffic light finally installed in Romulus

Residents in the area of Eureka and Inkster Roads — especially Jerry Fillip, owner and operator of the Jerry's Party Store, 27427 Inkster Rd., Romulus — are relieved and much happier now that a traffic control signal has been installed at the intersection of Eureka and Inkster Roads.

After many years of trying to get action on the installation of a traffic control light at the intersection, the residents were happy to see the Wayne County Road Commission install the light last Wednesday.

"We all are very much happier now that the light has been installed. We have had an average of two accidents a week at the intersection," Fillip said.

He reported that he had been trying to get a traffic light to replace a caution signal at the location for more than 10 years. His letter to the old Romulus Township Board, prior to May, 1970, was immediately acted upon and forwarded to the road commission. Traffic surveys were conducted and nothing happened, Fillip said.

"We finally appealed to our area representative, State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus) to get a light at the intersection. I don't know what he did but they were out here last Wednesday installing the light," Fillip added.

State diabetes group to sell Christmas cards

Christmas cards made from an original painting from the Detroit Institute of Arts were put on sale this week by the Michigan Diabetes Association.

Mrs. Charles R. DeVlieg, Christmas card chairman, said the cards feature the velopes sells for $3.75 plain, $5.00 if the customer's name is printed on the cards. A sample card and order form can be obtained by writing or phoning the Michigan Diabetes Association, 6131 West Outer Dr., Detroit, Michigan 48235, 342-9333.

Proceeds from the sale of cards will go to diabetes research, a summer camp for diabetic youngsters, free public testing programs and other projects of the association.

Mrs. DeVlieg said that there is a great need for new and broadened diabetes programs and services. Profit from Christmas cards will help to fill those needs.

Diabetes now affects about 200,000 people in Michigan, nearly 5 million nationally. It is the fourth biggest killer among diseases in Michigan, and the second largest cause of blindness.

Diabetes is a strong factor in heart attacks, strokes, kidney failures, still births and birth defects.

We know growth stock when we see it.

The moment of truth for Charlie, the steer, and for Eric Wyche, who raised him, didn't come in the bull ring. It came in the show ring at the Monroe County Fair. We had more than a casual interest, ourselves, since Eric and his family have been customers at our Belleville office for years.

As a result, we cheered about as loud as anyone when Charlie and 16-year-old Eric walked off with the grand prize. But that's only half the story. Eric was counting on the sale proceeds to help him get to college—an ambition that was otherwise pretty hopeless. With luck, he hoped for as much as $1,000.

Irv Wallace, administrative assistant at our Belleville regional banking center auction determined that Eric should be disappointed. As it turned out, he outbid, but not until he pushed the price to almost three times the $1,000 he might get—the highest price for beef, incidentally, in the history.

Now that we've helped Eric get a good return on his investment of effort, we're going to help him with the rest of it, because we're his bank. We'll work just as hard for you. The bank to see is NBD. National Bank of Detroit.

New housing concept displayed in Westland

A new concept in modern housing was introduced last Friday, with the grand opening of four furnished models in Westland's Willow Creek Estates.

When final construction is completed, the scheduled 15-acre community on Hix Road south of Ford Road will be the site of 37 structures called four-plexes, the latest innovation in condominium living.

On the exterior, Willow

Creek Estates' four-plexes have the appearance of custom-built mansions. Inside are spacious groupings of four separate homes, none of which are above or below the other.

Each home has a private garage with extra storage space, unshared walkways and entrances, and seven-layer soundproof wall construction to insure privacy.

The new community will feature a variety of classic architectural designs: Colonial, Mansard, Georgian, Tudor and Regency. Interior homes include "The Ranch," a second-level "Carriage House," (both two-bedroom homes) and two and three-bedroom "Town Houses."

"Willow Creek Estates' unique four-plex design allows buyers to purchase a spacious, elegant new home in a country club setting at a price thousands of dollars less than a single home of comparable size," said Emanuel Ravet, one of the developers.

"Four-plexes return the cost of a new home back within the range of most budgets," he said. "Market tests conducted before groundbreaking last June showed us there was a great need and demand for modern homes of this type."

Ravet also noted that the four-plexes in the $3.5-million project will be available in a number of color-coordinating exteriors and will be arranged in clusters to blend with the natural grade of the terrain.

Each Willow Creek home will feature a number of built-in extras included in the final price. Among them will be central air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting, ranges and refrigerators, garbage disposals, walk-in closets, private attached garage and full landscaping.

Other attractions: a private swimming pool, club house, recreation and play areas, and complete maintenance - free living. A full-time crew will shovel snow, rake leaves, mow lawns, clean gutters and do the painting, roof repairing and brick tuck pointing.

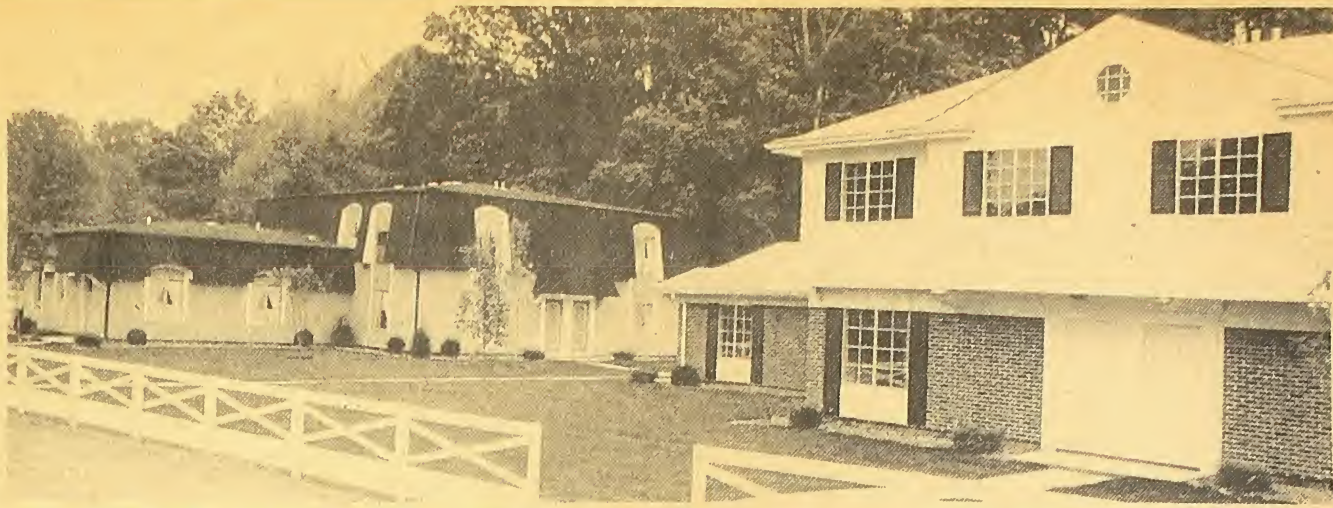

"Willow Creek Estates is centrally located in the heart of growing Westland," Ravet said.

"The headquarters of many large corporations are nearby as well as Westland Shopping Center, schools, churches and many recreation areas. And, of course, Metropolitan Airport is handy."

Prices for Willow Creek Estates homes will range from $19,990 to $23,500. Each owner acquires full title which means all the benefits of single home ownership, including tax deductions.

Architect for the Willow Creek project is Michael S. Downes & Associates of Oak Park.

Model homes in Willow Creek Estates may be seen from noon to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 1 to 7 p.m. Sunday. The sales office telephone number is 729-8660.

Jail renovation plans progress; study OK'd

The county's plans to renovate and improve the Wayne County Jail have progressed one more step following notification of approval of $150,000 to study facility needs and approval of renovation plans.

The Board of Commissioners has been notified the Corrections Task Force of the Michigan Commission on Criminal Justice Programs has approved the county's application for $150,000 to conduct a study of total facility needs in Wayne County. As soon as the full commission approves the grant, expected this week, the study will be initiated.

The study is part of a comprehensive jail master plan the board adopted in July which outlines short-term and long-range plans to improve the jail. The master plan was adopted to meet a directive by a panel of three Circuit Court judges after a lawsuit was filed against the commissioners and jail officials on behalf of a group of inmates.

The commissioners have also been notified their renovation plans have been approved by Robert J. Russell, state jail inspector. The plans call for $1.5 million to be used for renovation of the plumbing, electrical and ventilation systems in the jail, expected to be completed within 18 months.

Another bright spot is notification by Robert E. Krinock, director of the Office of Program Development and Coordination, that the Office of Criminal Justice has earmarked $600,000 for a multi-facet jail improvement program. The funds are expected to be used for a reception-diagnostic center, recreational facilities in the present jail and supportive program development.

Renovation of the jail is slated to begin Nov. 1, with the county planning on moving some of the 1,000 prisoners to neighboring county jails. The commissioners earmarked $1.5 million in last year's county budget for the project, but the work was held up for more than a year due to the severe over-crowding at the jail.

The county expects to house from 30 to 40 prisoners at the Ingham County Jail, while St. Clair County has indicated it can take 25. Another 70 to 100 may be sent to Saginaw County.

Accident victim on critical list

Arvin V. Robertson, 49, of 15766 Elwell Rd., Belleville, who was injured in an accident Sept. 5 on the Willow Run Expressway at Airport Drive, Ypsilanti, remained in a critical condition Saturday in the intensive care unit of the Wayne County General Hospital.

Robertson was driving southbound on the expressway when his car went out of control on a curve and left the road, State Police reported.

The car skidded more than 350 feet, threw him out and rolled over the top of Robertson, police stated. A passenger, Earl Shupe, 54, also of 15766 Elwell Rd. was trapped inside. He was treated and released.

State Police troopers with the aid of two motorists rolled the car off Robertson who was pinned under the top and forced the car back on its wheels.

Belleville doctor to speak at city heart forum

A Belleville physician, Dr. S. Phillip Grillo, now recovered from a heart attack in November, 1969, will be one of the featured speakers at the city's first public heart education forum, scheduled for Thursday evening, Oct. 21 at Belleville High School.

Dr. Grillo will lead the audience in playing "Risko," a game devised by the Michigan Heart Association to emphasize and explain the nature of heart risk factors. He is convinced that avoidance of risk factors is important for the maintenance of healthy arteries, which are essential to avoid heart attack or stroke.

Sponsored by the Southern Wayne County Unit of the Heart Association, the forum will also feature Mrs. Dianne Batch of Grosse Ile, a registered dietitian at Riverside Osteopathic Hospital, who will talk about low fat-low cholesterol diets; and Dr. William L. Hailer, a Trenton Osteopath, whose subject will be one of his special interests, high blood pressure.

A high blood level of cholesterol and high blood pressure are important risk factors.

Titled "You Are What You Eat," the forum will be cosponsored by the Belleville Enterprise, said Mrs. Mary Bowman and Olin H. Wyman, chairman and member respectively of the Unit's Forum Planning Committee.

Admission will be by free tickets available from the Unit's Heart Information Center at 24365 Van Born Rd., Taylor, or from the office of the Enterprise, 405 Main St., Belleville 48111. Two short Heart Association films will be shown. The Michigan Heart Association is a United Fund agency.

Bronzed and slim, Dr. Grillo, 60, who lives on Harmony Lane, Belleville, plans to explain some of the risk factors listed in "Risko;" these include: age, overweight, smoking, lack of regular exercise, and being a male, bald and stocky.

"These all play a part in blocking up arteries," he says. "For myself, my cholesterol level was a little high and I have a brother who had a heart attack. I believe, however, the most important factor to me was simply stress and fatigue. These came from a combination of a most vicious attack of the Hong Kong Flu, combined with extra work caused by the flu epidemic.

"For years doctors have been quarreling over the connection between stress and fatigue and atherosclerosis, artery blockage disease, which causes most heart attack and strokes," he adds.

Not only my own example, but my patients' have convinced me that proper rest and avoidance of stress will help prevent heart attacks. I have suggested rest and avoidance of stress to patients who neglected the advice and have seen them get heart attacks."

Born in Gary, Indiana, Dr. Grillo graduated from University of Indiana and its medical school in Indianapolis. In school he was a singer, amateur actor, and trumpet player. After graduation, he interned at St.

Mary's Hospital (now Detroit Memorial). He married a nurse and spent 10 years mostly in industrial practice in Detroit.

During World War II, at the government's orders, he came to Belleville to help combat a critical shortage of medical care for workers in the Willow Run Bomber Plant.

"I never expected to like Belleville so much," he says. "It was then, and still is, a lovely place with its lake and nice people in the area."

A widower, Dr. Grillo raised three children; Mrs. Mary Katherine Carey, 29, of Bridgewater, Michigan; Mrs. Dianna Louise Evans, 25, of Los Angeles; and Phillip E. Grillo, 15, in the 10th grade at Belleville High School. He has three grandchildren.

Dr. Grillo underwent extensive open heart surgery at the Cleveland Clinic last year.

Using sections of his veins cut out of his legs, the Clinic surgeons sewed in bypasses of blockages in the arteries serving his heart. He now takes regular moderate exercise around his home.

"I am in semi-retirement," he says, "but I want to keep on working, at least part time, for several years. I think a reasonable amount of work is good for me and for everybody else."

PASS IT ON
by L.M. Boyd

Few souls realize Presidents Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson and Zachary Taylor declared a national Thanksgiving Day to be unconstitutional . . . Note it also claimed almost but not quite one out of every 10 families nationwide has a backyard swimming pool. Just can't believe that . . . In the college crowd, it's those business administration majors who drink the most liquor, surveys show. Education majors, the least.

century, the statisticians record about 200 attacks on swimmers. Of these, about 70 citizens have died. What's that, an average of maybe four shark attacks a year along our coasts? Majority escape at least with their lives. Divers have killed more sharks than sharks have killed people. Dangerous, those fish, don't mean to say otherwise. But it's a fact the human swimmer is braver, stronger and deadlier than the shark, by far.

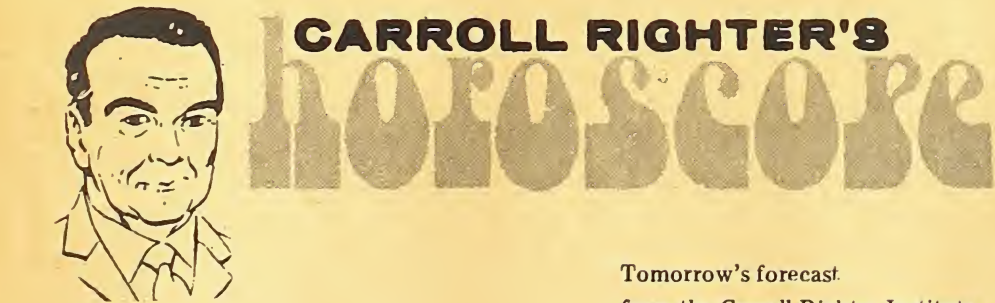

Consider sharks. In our part of the world in the last-half

Three things a man can't do without appearing a little ridiculous. 1. Ask for a doggie bag in a restaurant. 2. Remove a speck of dust from another man's eye. 3. Sip a drink from a long-stemmed glass. Odd . . . You know those pictures of baseball players on bubble gum cards? Maybe you weren't aware said baseball players get a flat rate of $250 for allowing such exposure.

Age 17 is when the average young lady has the most boyfriends, that's true enough. But age 19 is when she's most apt to receive the largest number of marriage proposals. Or so contend the matrimonial researchers now. Just 25 years ago, she was expected to have the longest list of boyfriends at age 19. But more girls are dating younger lately, fewer going steady.

Customer service: Q. "Back in the days when a miner could buy a drink with a pinch of gold dust, how much actual money was that a pinch supposedly worth?" A. The standard was 25 cents a pinch. The record shows one of the qualifications to be a good bartender in those days was to have long fingernails . . . Q. "Who said, 'The men who really believe in themselves are all in the lunatic asylums'?" A. That was G.K. Chesterton. He also said: "Art, like morality, consists of drawing the line somewhere." And: "My country, right or wrong" is like saying, "My mother, drunk or sober."

Am asked to name the fastest growing town in our history. Would that be Oklahoma City? By dusk of April 22, 1889, the day settlement started, it had picked up a population of 10,000 tent-dwellers. Chambers of Commerce, please note . . . Whether you're right-handed or left-handed, doesn't matter. That part of your brain that tinkers with words - talking, writing, hearing, reading - is on the left side of your head. Normally, normally. CARROLL RIGHTER'S
HOROSCOPE

Tomorrow's forecast
from the Carroll Righter Institute

General tendencies: A change now taking place in your life gives you a chance to see things in a much broader and better light which could lead to greater success in the days ahead. Avoid arguments and accept new beginnings philosophically. You have much energy to use but be sure it's used wisely or trouble ensues.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Any new beginnings with associates should be on the creative side. You have good ideas and can do much with them. Avoid one who has radical ideas and could get you into a great deal of trouble.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have many duties to perform but try to balance your time so that you can easily handle both those at home and in business. A co-worker has radical ideas. Keep silent and all is well.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Engage in a new kind of recreation with persons you have just met and are very interesting. You need a new approach with old friends, also. Avoid taking risks. Show that you are wise.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) You know now what kin desire of you so try to please them. Forget your own aims for the time being. You can now obtain a new energy-saving appliance. Take it easy tonight.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to take a trip. Plan it well, taking into consideration some possible last-minute changes. You are not sure about attending a social affair but go anyway. It will turn out well after all.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have formulated a plan with an expert in business secretly. Go through with it and all works out just fine. Don't criticize others now or they resent it. Show courtesy to all.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A new acquaintance has excellent ideas for your advancement. Listen and follow through. It may mean your making changes. Repay social obligations and do some entertaining tonight.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have some activities to attend to, so start on them early instead of doing so much deliberating. Keep your mind focused on ambition instead of going on a tangent. Take it easy tonight.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have good friends whose ideas are excellent. Go along with them and reap benefits in the future. An associate disagrees with you but a long talk changes the picture. Be poised.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Responsibilities can be handled efficiently even though you may think you are spending too much money. Mate wants you to attend a social affair. Be willing to do so. Show that you are wise.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have a new plan in mind and want to discuss it with associates, so get together with them early. Attend an interesting place socially in the evening, and state your aims to right people.

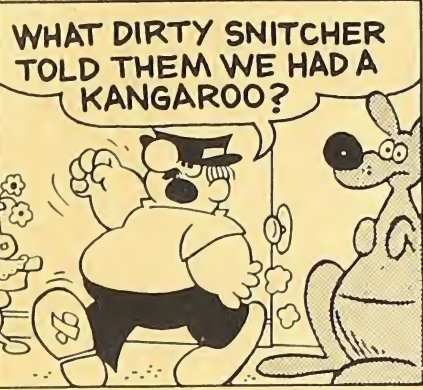

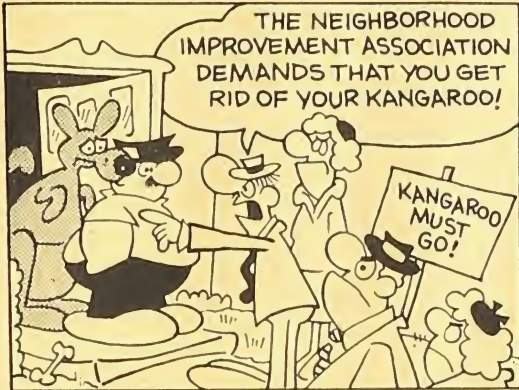

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be more willing to accept change where property is concerned since it is for the better. Study new systems early so that you can function efficiently. Give more attention to family in evening.

If your child is born today he or she will be one of those delightful young people with magnetic charm but one who will need assistance of others in order to function well. There is apt to be a life time of changing associates because of continued progress. Give as much education as desired and sports that help your youngster to be well balanced. Give religious training, too.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you.
